After logging into your YouTube account, click the person icon in the top right corner, then click the widget.

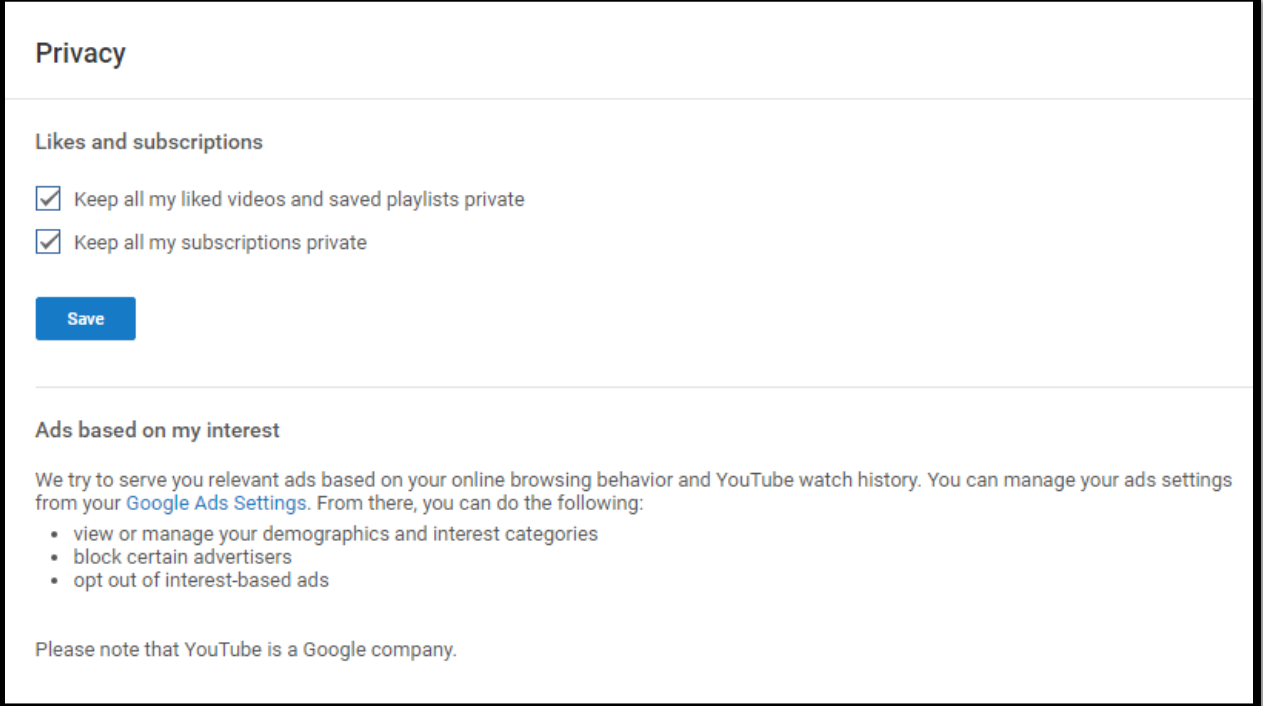

Under “Overview”, you can change your password and edit the name associated with your account.

Next, click on “Connected accounts.” Under this tab, you can view which social media accounts you have connected to your YouTube account and what information is shared between your connected accounts and your YouTube account. It is recommended that you do not associate your other social media accounts to your YouTube accounts.

Next, click the “Privacy” tab. This tab allows you to control what information is shared publically on your YouTube account. It is recommended that you “Keep all liked videos and saved playlists private” AND “Keep all my subscriptions private.” In addition, if you click on the “Google Ads Settings” link, you will be taken to the Google Ads privacy settings page, which will allow you to turn off targeting ads.

The screenshot shows the YouTube Privacy settings interface. At the top, the word "Privacy" is displayed in a bold, dark font. Below this, there is a section titled "Likes and subscriptions". This section contains two checkboxes, both of which are checked. The first checkbox is labeled "Keep all my liked videos and saved playlists private" and the second is labeled "Keep all my subscriptions private". Below these checkboxes is a blue button with the word "Save" in white text. A horizontal line separates this section from the one below. The second section is titled "Ads based on my interest". It begins with a paragraph explaining that YouTube serves relevant ads based on online browsing behavior and watch history, and that users can manage these settings in the "Google Ads Settings" link. Below this paragraph is a bulleted list with three items: "view or manage your demographics and interest categories", "block certain advertisers", and "opt out of interest-based ads". At the bottom of the page, there is a small note stating "Please note that YouTube is a Google company."

Ads based on my interest

We try to serve you relevant ads based on your online browsing behavior and YouTube watch history. You can manage your ads settings from your Google Ads Settings. From there, you can do the following:

- view or manage your demographics and interest categories
- block certain advertisers
- opt out of interest-based ads

Please note that YouTube is a Google company.

Next click the “Notifications” Tab. This tab allows you to control how Youtube connects with you. Click the “Manage all subscriptions” to control each individual subscription. Click the Google+ notification settings to edit your email preferences for comments and replies to your YouTube account.

The screenshot shows the YouTube Account Settings page with the 'Notifications' tab selected. A red arrow points to the 'Notifications' tab in the left sidebar. The main content area is titled 'Notifications' and contains several sections: 'Send me emails about my YouTube activity' with two radio button options, 'Latest email updates from YouTube' with two unchecked checkboxes, 'Unsubscribed emails' with a link to unsubscribe, 'Channel subscriptions' with an unchecked checkbox and a link to 'Manage all subscriptions', 'Notify me via' with a dropdown menu set to 'Email only', 'Language preference' with a dropdown menu set to 'English (US)', and 'Your emails are sent to' with a blurred email address field.
